

The PSJ Children's Play Policy

We have the right to play but the duty to ensure we all have fun.

We have the right to experience different types of play using toys and equipment and the responsibility to look after what we have.

We have the right to choose to play individually or as a group but the responsibility to not leave anyone out or force them to do something they don't want to.

We have the right to make our own decisions but the responsibility to not let our choices affect others negatively.

We have the responsibility to respect everyone.
